ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, we are so grateful to The Almighty for giving us strength, patience and cooperation among us to complete this project, research proposal for Study on Student's Perception towards the Factors That Lead to Prostitution Activity in Melaka. Basically, this task is the course work for the subject Research Methodology and Data Analysis (ADS 511) and Applied Research Project (ADS 555).

We would like to thank all the people who help us in completing this project, especially our supervisor, Miss Norazlin Binti Abdul Aziz. She is so supportive with all her guidance and opinions with regard to this research proposal. We also would like to thank her for showing us some examples that related to the topic of our project.

Thank you also for all the classmates who gave their hands to help us during our hard times to complete this task. Hopefully, their contribution for this project will be blessed and good luck to them in their research proposal too.

Lastly, we would like to sorry everyone for all the weaknesses we have done in this project. Hence, we welcome any suggestions for further improvements on our project.

Thank You.

ABSTRACT

This study examines the perception of Faculty of Administrative Science and Policy Studies (FSPPP) students towards the factors contributing to prostitution activities in Malacca City. A review of literature shows that there are a few factors that contribute to prostitution activities in Malacca City. The studies done by other researchers were used as guideline to determine what factors should be tested in this study and the factors are childhood abuse experiences, peer influences and financial problem. A questionnaire survey was distributed to 181 respondents among the population of FSPPP students. A total of 181 valid respondents were obtained. Data analysis shows that significant relationship exists between three factors and student perception towards the factors contributing to the prostitution activities. Financial problem emerged as the most influencing factor that influence student perception towards the factors contributing to the prostitution activities in Malacca City.
